A: Q: Infinitely many prime elements in an ordered ring I am reading Eakin-Townsley and I have a question about Exercise 3: Let  $R$  be a ring in which  $R^{\times}$  is an ordered group and  $R$  is ordered in the reverse of the way that  $R^{\times}$  is. Is  $R$  necessarily noncommutative and not an integral domain? A: Example. Consider the ring  $R = \mathbb{Z} \times \mathbb{Z}$ , ordered so that  $(a,b) \leq (c,d)$  iff  $a \leq c$  and  $b \geq d$ . Then  $(-1,0) \leq (2,1)$ . Now we let  $a = (-1,0)$  and  $b = (2,1)$  be elements of  $R$ . Then  $b \leq a$ , but the only positive element in  $R$  is  $(1,0)$ , so we must have  $a = b$ , giving  $a \leq a$ . It follows that  $R$  is not an integral domain. Q: Why is it faster to not use the cache? Given some code that looks like: ... for i in xrange(loops): q.put(i) ... Why is it faster to do not use the cache by using the following code? ... q.put(i) ... and why is this faster than ... for i in xrange(loops): q.put(i) ... ? A: The first two lines you posted are equivalent. The last one looks like it's using a local variable, which is never going to be the same as the variable you might have just used in a previous loop iteration. A: Your third example is really probably slower than your first two examples. The third example is going to keep creating its own q.put
