(Did he say what he had for dinner last night?) It's a gutsy move and probably one that will generate a lot of hype for the network -- if nothing else, it demonstrates that ESPN won't stand by and let Puig's bad decisions speak for themselves. --CBS Sports Prediction: Puig's want-to (and baseball instincts) will keep the organization open-minded on how he's used. But it's only a matter of time before the Dodgers won't be able to ignore his improprieties. -- Heyman 33. Anibal Sanchez Age: 31 2017 stats: 61/36/1.35 ERA/WHIP/K in 100 IP The Bucs traded for Sanchez at the deadline, and it didn't happen because they needed another starter. They needed another pitcher who could give them multiple innings of three-plus-plus-or-be-damn-near-perfect. After trading for Sanchez, the Bucs started 12 pitchers, with the starter option between these two pitchers being the difference in a 7-1 win over the Astros and a 2-7 start
