But he loves the wife, and he hates the friend. The other day, when the wife and the friend were having a fight, he finally came out of the kitchen and pulled out a gun and shot the friend. She was a really nice friend, so she didn't talk to him for a while. She was very angry at him. Then, a few months later, she took her own life. He was devastated. So, I told him, "There's a way you can make the best out of a tragedy. What do you think it is?" "I don't know. But I think it's a wrong thing to do." "It's the only thing I think I can do." I said, "I've known a lot of people who've committed suicide." He said, "Okay." I said, "Then, let's suppose that your friend found a way out of her pain. She's happy, and she lives a happy life, which means she doesn't think about suicide anymore. She has put down all of the weapons she was using to live her life. She's made a commitment to herself. She has achieved her own best, which is your friend." He said, "Okay." I said,
