Thank you for your support. A: According to the sourceforge page of your github project, the assembly has the following errors, amongst others: the input file gas is not C:\Users\redh\Documents\Omega\Work\Projects\CE\\User\\modules\Input\Gas\20171212\Gas.txt and the output file volume is not C:\Users\redh\Documents\Omega\Work\Projects\CE\\User\modules\Output\Ventilation\20171212\Ventilation.txt This should be fixed. Q: Saving values to struct using DTO I have a file struct, I want to save all of the values to a dto using a dictionary, my struct is as follows: public struct Attachment { public Attachment(string fileName, string fileType, string fileSize, string fileExtension, byte[] fileData) { this.fileName = fileName; this.fileType = fileType; this.fileSize = fileSize; this.fileExtension = fileExtension; this.fileData = fileData; } public string fileName { get; set; } public string fileType { get; set; } public string fileSize { get; set; } public string fileExtension { get; set; } public byte[] fileData { get; set; } } My DTO is as follows: public class AttachmentDTO { public string fileName { get; set; } public string fileType { get; set; } public string fileSize { get; set; } public string fileExtension { get; set; } public byte[] fileData { get; set; } } So I want to be able to use the dictionary to be able to save all of the values, is this possible? Thanks in advance for your help. A: Yes, you can
